

Dear VOGIII homeowners,

I am writing this letter to talk to you about the importance of your community. We have 151 owners on our beautiful campus. Each of us call this home in one way or another. Keeping our home in order takes work and commitment. We have elected a 5-person board of directors to handle the day-to-day operation.

I will not lie to you, being on the board is work. But knowing that the work you do is for the betterment of your community makes it worth the sacrifice.

The problem we are facing is we have openings on the board, and the community of people are not stepping up to join the board and participating in keeping our community and our investment at a high level. People say that it takes a village to raise a child. I feel the same way about this community that I call home.

Your board needs your help. Two of the members of the board are snowbirds. This poses another challenge being so far from the campus. We are looking for owners that live on the campus all year round and want to make a difference. It is far better for all of us to have people that live on the campus as board members because they can see things every day and react to issues that come up.

November is coming up and there will be openings for positions on the board. I ask that you to please consider stepping up and helping grow your community.
